Liverpool, Nov 3—The leading grain circular says: With the continual fine weather favorable to the labors of husbandry the British grain markets are still scantily supplied with wheat, the value of which remains unchanged. Foreign trade is at the same time more steady after the slight depression and activity has been partially resumed. It is now understood that an armistice having been agreed upon by Turkey and Servia the influence of war anticipations will not have the effect as of late of exciting speculation, but as stock taking at the close of the month shows that short supplies coming since September 1st have resulted in a material reduction in quantities in granary there appears a fair element for steadiness at current rates. At Liverpool we have 304 000 quarters less in store now than on August 31st and our local consumption with that to the interior and elsewhere makes an average in the interval of 70 000 quarters per week with moderate attendance of country millers at to-day's market. Trade has not been active but sellers of wheat show much firmness. A tolerably fair business in the aggregate has been done at rates current on Tuesday. Flour was steady at quotations. Corn was slow and dull. Holders would willingly make a concession of 6d to effect sales.

Prosecution of Criminals.

The Standard's Paris dispatch says M Gatineau's bill for the cessation of prosecutions against Communists was introduced in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday by M Lisbonne. After some debate during which Dufaure opposed and Gambetta supported the measure, the House by an overwhelming majority decided to proceed to the debate on the clauses of the bill. The Standard's correspondent remarks that this defeat of Dufaure ought to show the Government the necessity of doing something in the matter. The Times yesterday published a letter from Paris on the subject of which the following is the substance: M Gatineau's provision is that no new prosecutions for participation in the Commune shall be begun and old prosecutions shall be quashed except those directed against the instigators or principals in assassinations, incendiarism or robbery; that trials of parties in contumacy be brought before the court of assize instead of military tribunals as heretofore. This provision would prolong the trials ten years as between 3 000 and 4 000 cases remained to be heard while the court of assize could only try 300 or 400 yearly. On June 28 President MacMahon yielding to the cabinet's desire to quiet agitation on this subject, published a letter in the Journal Officiel ordering that no more prosecutions be initiated except in contumace or upon initiative of the cabinet. This was meant to be compensation to the extreme left for the rejection of general amnesty. Gatineau's proposition would permit all self exiled communist leaders to return to France in safety. The cabinet has determined not to accept any less measure of amnesty than that conceded in the President's letter, leaving individual cases subject to executive clemency. The passage of Gatineau's bill by the lower house even though certain of defeat in the Senate involves an aggressive and distrustful vote against President MacMahon. If the measure be adopted by a combination of the Left and Right the cabinet majority is destroyed and either way the cabinet must resign.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Paris, Nov 3—Reuter's telegram from Ragusa says that in consequence of the conclusion of the armistice the consular commission at Mostar for pacification of the insurgent provinces has been dissolved.

The Daily News dispatch from Vienna reports the Austrian ambassador at St Petersburg has been ordered to Livadia. It is rumored the Grand Vizier will shortly go thither also on a confidential mission.

A Belgrade telegram to the Times confirms the statement that the armistice, as accepted by the Porte, is unconditional.

London, Nov 4—Marquis Huntington addressing a public meeting at Keighley yesterday said however much he might doubt the policy of some government measures relative to the Eastern question he was not prepared to say that the objects the government had aimed at had not been such as would generally commend themselves to the good opinion of the English people.

Turks Burning Houses.

London, Nov 4—A special to the Standard from Sarajevo, capital of Bosnia, reports that the residence of Austria's consul in that town has been set on fire. It is said by Turks and troops who were summoned to extinguish the flames plundered the houses.

France will Maintain Neutrality.

Paris, Nov 3—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day Duke de Cazes, minister of foreign affairs, made a statement with regard to the policy of the French government in the East. He dwelt principally on the country's need of peace and concluded as follows: "If, contrary to the expectations of the government, complications should arise, we shall never ask you to compromise the welfare and safety of France in a struggle which does not involve our essential interests. Thus having used our best endeavors to maintain the peace of Europe therefore we shall at least be sure of being at [illegible]"

Fraudulent Registration.

San Francisco, Nov 3—U S deputy marshals yesterday armed with warrants went on a raid after illegally registered voters and colonists and succeeded in bagging five during the day who were lodged in the county jail. Many of the colonists spotted by the officers are constantly on the move having been instructed to keep dark till the day of election when they could brave the officers at the polls and swear in their ballots.

Arrests for Illegal Registration.

San Francisco, Nov 3—The arrest of 28 persons by U S authorities on a charge of improperly getting on the great register and the known fact that other warrants have been issued from the U S attorney's office, has created a decided breeze among the Democrats from the fact that those arrested thus far are of the Democratic faith. Governor Irwin and Mayor Bryant held a conference on the matter this morning and communicated with U S Attorney Coghlan. The result was an agreement that seven persons now in the county jail should have a hearing this afternoon before Commissioner O'Beirne. At two o'clock some thirty persons assembled in the circuit court room, among them Wm Blanding, formerly U S attorney, now harbor commissioner, J C Burch, J H Mullan, Sol Sharp, Milton Andros and Lawrence Doyle, one of the arrested parties. Mr Coghlan suggested that the seven or eight persons now in the county jail be taken before Judges Sawyer and Hoffman, the highest U S authority here, to-morrow, and have the right of arrest tested. He did not believe that Mayor Bryant or any other good citizen would countenance fraudulent registration. Complaints are made out for not being citizens. The principal charges are of not being residents of the State and of having been convicted of infamous crime and therefore not entitled to vote under the law. He also stated that if the judges would hear the cases to-morrow he would suggest to the U S Marshal to make no more arrests until the matter was determined. He did not want to stop arrests indefinitely but wanted arrested every man white, black or copper-colored who was trying to get on the great register improperly. He preferred to do it before election day to save time on that day and avoid disturbance at the polls. Mr Coghlan and the legal gentlemen then withdrew to the chambers of Judge Sawyer. After consultation they returned and Mr Coghlan announced that it had been agreed that the matter would come up before Judges Sawyer and Hoffman at 11 o'clock on law points, but the facts would be heard hereafter. The parties arrested could go on their own recognizance but would be required to be in court to-morrow. The meeting then adjourned.

MR BLAINE'S ATTACK ON JUDGE CLIFFORD.

(From the Nation.)

In a speech recently made at Boston, Mr Blaine, referring to the supposed danger to the Treasury from the horde of "rebel claimants" who he says, would get their opportunity should the Democrats come into power, instanced a case decided in the United States Circuit Court at Portland as an illustration of this danger. He described it as a case against General Neal Dow for sugar seized by him in Louisiana for the use of his soldiers. Soon after and in another speech made in Ohio he went into a history of the case, asking the attention of the lawyers as he revealed its real nature; declared that by it judgment was rendered in favor of a "rebel" against Dow personally for sugar seized by a foraging party; that Dow had offered the man a receipt for the sugar provided he could prove his loyalty; that this he declined to do and got judgment in a Louisiana court; that the United States Court confirmed this judgment, but that the decision was warmly dissented from by Judge Clarke of New Hampshire, who had been brought up in the true faith, but was overruled by Judge Clifford, whom he described as an ingrain hungry Democrat, double-dyed and twisted, dyed in the wool and coarse wool at that, adding that in his opinion Judge Clifford had carried the case—or in other words withheld his judgment—for eight years, and never affirmed that decision until he in his ignorance believed in a Democratic triumph; and Mr Blaine suggested that if this were sound law every soldier in the Union army might be sued for trespass and the owner of the field at Appomattox collect ground rent from Grant.

Now as a matter of fact this account of the case turns out to have been a misrepresentation from beginning to end. The plaintiff was not a rebel but a well known citizen of New York, Mr Bradish Johnson, of unquestioned loyalty, and he brought an action in the Sixth District Court of New Orleans against General Neal Dow for the alleged appropriation of some sugar, plate and other property by officers and soldiers of his command. General Dow not appearing the case went for the plaintiff by default, and the suit in the United States Court was brought upon the judgment of the New Orleans court. The only question presented was as to the validity of the old judgment and had nothing to do with rebel claims in any way. Judge Clifford could have decided this himself, but thinking that it might be better that the case should go to the Supreme Court, himself called in Judge Clarke so that they might certify to a division of opinion. We see that all this is stated, and we understand on good grounds, that before Mr Blaine made his Ohio speech Judge Clarke complained to him of the injustice he had done to Judge Clifford in his Boston speech, and explained to him the character of the case and the points involved in the decision. [illegible] The case deserves a thorough overhauling by the press, for the Supreme Court is of every citizen whose party and [illegible] every citizen of the country has a stake in [illegible] unprovoked attack upon the character of any of its members is a matter of [illegible] importance with which the success of this or that party in a political struggle [illegible]

MR TILDEN'S DEFENSE REVIEWED

An Open Letter to Mr Hewitt

A [illegible] THE INCOME TAX LAW AND THE DEFENSE [illegible] IN TERMS [illegible] EVERY MATTER [illegible]

[illegible] Mr Hewitt's striking letter in the [illegible] Mr Tilden's income tax [illegible] are the salient points.

Dear Sir: You will agree that the balance of power in the pending Presidential canvass is held by a body of old and upright voters in the Northern States who acknowledge unswerving allegiance to no party and wear the badge of no leader; men who believe political parties are useful as servants, not as masters; as instruments, not as idols. To this body of non partisan citizens many of whom in April last were prepared to seek relief from certain evil elements of the Republican party by voting for a worthy Democratic candidate, the personal character and antecedents of the two nominees are of the highest importance. From the point of view of an independent layman who sees the sins of the Republicans without being blind to the past and prospective sins of their opponents permit me to call your attention briefly to a few points in the general field and review a single chapter in the history of the Democratic reform candidate for the Presidency—bearing in mind that (except in cases of distinct conversion like St Paul's) a man's history is his character. * * *

It is a matter of common fame and more or less on definite knowledge, among Mr Tilden's neighbors and professional brethren that he accumulated the bulk of his fortune of several million dollars during the ten years from 1861 to 1871. This no one probably questions, as official and corporate records would certainly prove it. These large gains came partly from a singularly lucrative legal practice and partly from shrewd investments in several corporations to which his legal practice had introduced him. Great and sudden as was this accumulation of wealth no one has the right to question its legitimacy in the absence of specific adverse evidence. The only fair question to be asked is—What attitude did Mr Tilden as the owner of vast wealth assume toward the Republic in its hour of mortal struggle; how did he treat the legal and equitable pecuniary claims of a government which was striving to keep a roof and a flag over his head? * * * Beginning with 1862 and ending with 1872 the United States government laid a tax on all incomes above a certain limit, the exemptions under the law being designed to excuse the poor and lay the burden on those best able to bear it, the well to do and the rich. * * * *

The official records show, and Mr Tilden in his published defense necessarily admits, that in eight years out of ten he deliberately disobeyed the law, refused to make any return whatever, compelled the law officers to estimate his income as best they could guided by his remarkable and now discredited return of 1862, and then paid the penalty of his violation of law by having 25 and 50 per cent added to the regular tax. This is definite, confessed, conclusive. How does Mr Tilden justify his course and attempt to regain the confidence of his countrymen? Let his defense be read (the italics being the writer's) alongside the letter of the law he systematically violated.

MR TILDEN'S CONFESSION AND DEFENSE.	LANGUAGE OF THE INCOME LAW
In respect to the allegation that after two years of the income tax Mr Tilden made no return * * the answer is simple. The statute gave the tax payer the option to take that course and good and honorable reasons existed why a scrupulous man should accept that option. Mr Tilden received no favors from the government officers and sought none. He did no thing but pay all they imposed on him. Nearly all his income from investments paid the tax through the corporations whose bonds and stocks he held without allowing for the lawful deductions as the residue after the lawful deductions were made he believed at the time that instead of paying less he was paying more than would have been the result of a full but troublesome account. He preferred that way to be exempt from the difficulties [illegible] to attempting a specific statement of the affairs in which he was interested aside of the corporations and business in which he was an investor, and also to be exempted from adjusting on the facts and the law applicable to uncertain and fluctuating elements during rapid and violent changes of all the values. The law was unsettled; questions of real difficulty existed. Constructions were set up by officials which were often conflicting, unintelligible or incapable of a just or safe application and it was impracticable to make a return on a doubtful or disputed theory or in contradiction to even unmeritorious claims made in behalf of the government.—Mr Tilden's letter of Sept 20 1876.	SECTION 118. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of all persons of lawful age to make and render a list or return in such form and manner as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to the assistant assessor of the district in which they reside of the amount of their income, gains and profits as aforesaid and all guardians and trustees * * * * shall make and render a list as aforesaid * * * * of the amount of income gains and profits of any minor or person for whom they act as trustee, and the assistant assessor shall require every list or return to be verified by the oath or affirmation of the party rendering it * * * * And in case any person guardian or trustee shall neglect or refuse to make and render such list or return or shall render or render a false or fraudulent list or return, it shall be the duty of the assessor or assistant assessor to make such list according to the best information he can obtain * * * * and add 25 per centum [thereto] in case of refusal to 50 per centum to the amount of the duty due on such lists in all cases of willful neglect or refusal to make and render a list or return, and in all cases of a false or fraudulent list or return having been rendered to add 100 per centum as a penalty to the amount of duty ascertained to be due, the duty and the additions thereto as penalty to be assessed and collected in the manner provided for in other cases of willful neglect or refusal to render a list or return or of rendering a false or fraudulent return.

A single sentence of the defense gives the key to Mr Tilden's mental processes and moral standards. It ought also to render his election impossible and his continued candidacy absurd. "The statute gave the taxpayer the option to take that course." With his general intelligence and legal knowledge Mr Tilden when he wrote or authorized that statement knew perfectly well (you can pardon plain speech) that in a desperate strait he was employing an untruth to justify his violation of law. Not one reputable member of Mr Tilden's profession can be induced to say that the income law above quoted gave or permitted or in the remotest degree alluded to an option on the part of taxpayers as to making or refusing to make a yearly sworn return of income. To make such return was made the imperative duty of every citizen liable to tax with no one exception and refusal or willful neglect to make it was punished with a penalty which was supposed to be adequate to suppress or prevent the offense except among common rascals not likely to have considerable incomes. The law gave Mr Tilden precisely the same sort of option to make a false or fraudulent return and attached to this option a penalty similar in kind but greater in degree. In case the Governor's sworn return of 1862 proves untrue [illegible] the courts to have been sport [illegible] will be also plead an option as a defense against the charge of perjury? * * *

The difficulties confronting an honest man who desired to make a fair return of income under the law were not what Mr Tilden paints them. He had only to set down the items about which there was no question and refer doubtful points with a frank statement of facts to the Department for a ruling. Against an unjust ruling every citizen had his remedy in the courts. Several million patriotic citizens so performed a duty which the Governor's lawyer at New York found too intricate and doing it rightly to attempt. The intricacy and legal acumen which were equal to the task of straightening the tangled web of the Fort Wayne Company's involved mortgages should have found all the problems of the income return as mere child's play. In a statute that prescribes "the punishment inflicted by law for its violation," and Mr Tilden the lawyer is aware that the word has no other statutory meaning. To make the argument of an option more conclusively impossible, the United States circuit court of Rhode Island has within the last three days, decided (United States against Edward G. Hazard) that a tax payer who refused to make a return under the income law, and who was assessed a tax with penalty added has no escape from his legal obligation to make a return, but must with the government, but shall continue to make his total payment and paid to the legal tax on his actual taxable income whenever the government can procure proof what that actual income was. In other words no man shall successfully plead his own violation of law as a bar to the collection of a tax which he owes the government. Where does this decision leave Mr Tilden's option?

Mr Tilden's sins are thus far his own. Is it your purpose Mr Hewitt to make them the sins of the party by asking Democratic editors and orators in the campaign you are directing to attempt a defense and justification of what you know cannot be defended? What do you think of the moral effect on the young men of the country of a thousand newspapers and as many speakers in a reform canvass loudly approving the deliberate violation of law, under circumstances of virtual fraud by a presidential candidate? * * * Several recently prominent Americans for merely accepting the option of not presenting exhibits of certain distilling operations are now behind prison grates. Mr Tilden is as likely to escape this law of political and social retribution and become President of a self respected nation as he is to evade the grasp of gravitation. This is as good a time as can ever occur for the American people to teach American politicians of all parties that he who aspires to the highest post in the Republic must carry the white shield of an honest life. Sincerely yours

A REMINDER OF THE PAST

(From the Ypsilanti (Mich.) Commercial.)

It is with deep sorrow that we perceive that in the excitement and noise of the present political campaign an important and solemn thought is too often forgotten. Our great civil war is fresh in the memory of us all. The first gun at Sumter, the alarmed cry of an awakened country and the responsive shout of thousands of noble hearts. Proudly they marched from every hill and low land eager to uphold the integrity of a threatened Union. They came, they fought, they conquered, but alas how did they return? Thousands upon thousands they went, rejoicing in the strength and beauty of young life, and came back to their homes dragging their scarred and almost useless bodies, maimed, halt and blind, their young lives weary and old, their very strength weakness and sorrow, while in our national cemeteries line upon line of mangled forms lie in pathetic silence martyrs to the most unprovoked treason that ever cursed God's earth. And yet with only a few short years lying between us and that bloody past we are asked to forget our threatened country, our wounded comrades, our dead brothers and by our votes seat in the highest places in the country's gift, the very men who with every fibre of their bodies and souls strove to leave us without a country, a by-word and reproach among all nations. The South failed to ruin, hence she is bound to rule. She failed with fire and sword to lay waste to our capital, now she would take possession of it by the suffrages of its loyal defenders. In every town and hamlet of the land sleep the victims of southern treason and once in every year with solemn step and tear stained cheek, we twine their graves with living myrtle and wreathed immortelles. How cruel the mockery if we place in power over the land they died to save the misguided lead rs but for whom they might to-day be rejoicing in the buoyancy of life. We bear no malice toward the South, it is welcome to the privileges and protection of that flag it would have trailed in the dust, but we do protest with all the strength of patriotic hearts against placing the control of the government in the hands of those who know no country but the South, no rights but those of State. It is one thing to give them a share in the nation's councils and quite another to hand over to them the control of those councils. Oh friends!—you who with vague ideas that the country needs a change and deceived by the hollow pretense of reform—do you consider that by your vote you will aid in giving your country into the stained hands of those who fought to destroy it? It is far too soon to cry "Out damned spot!" while Ben Hills sit in Congress and Wade Hamptons seek the control of State governments. Are old issues dead? Are we to close the door of the past and forget the dark days of the rebellion, while around us bleeding hearts are longing

For the touch of a vanished hand,
And the sound of a voice that's still

No, a thousand times no! Do we wave the bloody shirt? Ah me, comrades, the dust lies thick upon the dead faces of our soldier boys, dust on brow and dumb lips, dust everywhere. But their memory burns upon the altar of our hearts with quenchless flame. Aye please God the bloody shirt shall wave until the flag they died to save flings out its broad folds forever safe from sacrilegious hands.

TILDEN DURING THE WAR

(From the Republic.)

Immediately on the close of the rebellion in 1865 there was published in New York a volume of some 500 pages called "The Tribute Book." Its object was to make and preserve a record of the munificence of the American people during the war for the Union. In its pages are presented copies of every subscription paper known to have been made to help the good cause.

The first paper of the kind was in aid of the Seventh Regiment of New York, on the 17th of April 1861. The first name was that of Moses H Grinnell, followed by W M Evarts, Hamilton Fish, Royal Phelps, A V Stout, and forty others each $100. In this list the name of Samuel J Tilden does not appear, although many of his political and personal friends and associates inscribed their names on the Roll of Honor. Bear in mind that Mr Tilden is estimated to be worth nearly $7 000 000. Had the contributions been to enable the regiment to go on an excursion he would probably have been among the first to sign.

On the 22d of April came the great subscriptions to the Union Defense. [illegible] and William B Astor led off with $10 000. A T Stewart put down $10 000, James Gordon Bennett $10 000, August Belmont $1 000, Oliver Charlick $500, William G Hunt $250, and 400 others appear with like sums. Here again we find the political and personal associates of Samuel J Tilden, but his name does not appear.

On the same day there was a patriotic meeting of the bench and bar of New York City in aid of the imperiled country. Although a lawyer of eminence and accustomed to participate in public meetings of the bar, the name of Samuel J Tilden does not appear.

A subscription was started in New York in November to help Frank Blair raise a regiment in Missouri. Again we find the name of Belmont, Pell and other Democrats among the contributors. Here was a case commending itself [illegible] but the name of Samuel J Tilden did not appear.

Samuel J Tilden [illegible] was among the [illegible] of New York [illegible] Vanderbilt [illegible] allotting gave [illegible] worth $ [illegible]

The Tribute Book makes a record of numerous public meetings and fairs to raise money for the Union, but in the pages of the book the name of Samuel J Tilden does not appear. [illegible] recall the [illegible] another [illegible]

In March 1864 the great Metropolitan Fair was held in New York. The Tribute Book contains 12 pages of names of contributors—several thousand. At this fair every trade and profession was represented. A T Stewart again $10 000, James Lenox $5 000 and other daily associates of Tilden in small contributions. The aggregate was $1 351 275 and not one dollar from Samuel J Tilden! What shall we say of a very rich man who saw, every day, almost other rich men, his neighbors, giving money by the thousand to save our country and he refused to give one cent? His name is Samuel J Tilden. Seventy millions of dollars it is stated in this book were voluntarily contributed in the Northern States of the Union. Many thousands of names of those who in some way helped to raise this magnificent sum fill the pages of this great volume. Samuel J Tilden's name is absent from the list.

OREGON

Washington county Nimrods are killing hundreds of wild geese.

The Chemeketa Hotel at Salem has been closed and the late proprietor has retired from business.

The Presbyterian church at McMinnville is to be thoroughly repaired if the money can be raised.

The clerk of the Board of Canal and Lock Commissioners is to receive a salary of $1,500 per annum.

Farmers are busy plowing. Should good weather last for two weeks a large amount of grain will be sown.

A company has been formed at Salem to carry on the manufacture of the Pelton Horse Power and Grain Separator, an Oregon invention of much merit.

A young lady of refinement and respectability, residing with her parents at Forest Grove, tired of life the other day and took a dose of strychnine, but failed to cross the bourne.

The McMinnville Reporter says: "Shooting geese at Harrison lake is now the popular night amusement for the boys. The other night young Gaunt bagged 25 geese at four double shots."

Last Sabbath the M E Sunday school at Hillsboro elected Chas. Tozier superintendent, Mr Henderson assistant superintendent, and Miss Rosalie Tozier organist. A prosperous and pleasant term is assured.

Another Grand Jury for Linn county has been called by His Honor Judge Boise, of the circuit court now in session, to take into consideration the killing of S W Hayes at Halsey by one Neil, on the 1st inst.

The following is a report of the business of the Western Union Telegraph office in Salem for the month of October just closed: No. of messages sent, 763; No. received 620; total, 1,383. This does not include the press reports sent during the session of the legislature.

Mr Hayes who was stabbed by a man named Neil at Halsey on Wednesday died the same evening. Neil was arrested as was also a man named George W Miller who offered a horse to Neil to escape on soon after the killing.

The Farmer sums up the financial condition of the State Agricultural Society thus: The debt of January 1 1876, was about $5,000; improvements made were about $10,000, making a total of about $15,000. The receipts of the late fair were, over expenses, about $5,000, leaving the society at present under a debt of about $10,000.

A letter from Forest Grove to the Independent says: "There is considerable wheat selling here at 75 cents a bushel. Mr Shipley has sold 3,000 bushels to a Portland miller, which will net him 82 cents per bushel which is more than the market price. The lot was of extra quality, and the party bought it to fill a flour contract."

Friday's Salem Mercury says: "The hands employed on the Capital mine, in the Santiam district, came down yesterday to remain until after the election. They report the ore still increasing in quantity and quality as the tunnel goes in on the lead. The treasurer of the company on yesterday received the coin on 1 400 shares sold in Albany by the company's agent at that place, Mr E O Smith. Mr Smith reports that the prospects are favorable for the sale of a large number of the shares to the enterprising business men of Albany."

THE TERRITORIES.

The Seattle and Walla Walla Railroad Co has reincorporated.

The bark Montana, now en route from Seattle to San Francisco, carries one lump of coal which weighs 3 000 pounds.

The Intelligencer says that Berryman & Coyle, coal dealers of San Francisco have sent to England to purchase two iron steamships to put in the coal trade between that city and their coal mines. These gentlemen are agents for the Departure Bay mines, where they might run their new vessels, but as foreign bottoms cannot engage in the coasting trade under our laws we do not expect to see the new craft at Seattle.

The Seattle Dispatch says: "Samuel Calhoun of Swinomish flats is stowing oats at the Belltown wharf. When he gets enough together to warrant it, he will charter a vessel to take them to San Francisco. He has already stored 2 500 sacks and does farming on a big scale for this patch of woods. This year he has threshed by steam power not only for himself, but also for his neighbors and to accommodate them he has inconvenienced himself on more than one occasion."

A New Plague in Egypt.—A letter from Alexandria, Aug 27 says: A new calamity now engages the attention of all Egyptians even more than the financial decrees of the Khedive or the refusal of the Government to accept the judgments of the New Courts. It seems that many of the cavalry horses that have returned from Abyssinia in the last two months came with a most malignant disease upon them. The doctors pronounce it a kind of typhoid fever. It is most infectious and terribly rapid in its progress, death resulting in many cases in a few hours. It is stated and on good authority that the Government, instead of isolating the infected animals sold them all at very low prices to the fellaheen. Thus they have been distributed throughout the country, and in the neighborhood of Cairo alone several hundred horses are already reported dead. A well informed correspondent thus describes in The Delta the effect of this epidemic in one of the busiest districts: It is ravaging now among the horses, mules and donkeys of our district most furiously and many villages are named where not one horse has escaped the disease. It is to be feared that this calamity will interfere very disagreeably with our work, as the cartmen will be short of horses and the donkeys to carry seed and cotton to the stations will be very scarce. The government is alone to blame that the disease has spread so quickly over the country, selling everywhere for a napoleon or a crown the sick cavalry horses returned from Abyssinia instead of isolating them.

Some sharper played his little game on the public by announcing the death of Commodore Vanderbilt. Straightway all the newspapers went to work to furbish up their old obituaries, but before an extra could be issued the old man himself telegraphed that he was not dead yet—that he had not felt so well for months. We have not the least doubt that the Commodore would have been dead long ago if his obituary were not already in type in every daily newspaper office in the country. There is no life insurance like that. We always felt that the Prince of Wales owed his escape to the faithfulness with which the newspaper men sat up all night for him for weeks together and it was unquestionably the obituaries that saved up Charles O'Conor. Commodore Vanderbilt does not realize his obligation to the newspapers. But for their timely preparation the Lord might have got the better of him. As it is he has killed off three of his doctors in as many months, and seems in a fair way to outlast the whole of them.

There are sixty one ex Confederate officers and officials in the present Congress. And thus far in the south the Democratic nominations for the next House are of the same sort. If the Democrats carry the elections the next Congress will consist almost entirely of Confederate brigadiers from the Southern States. The plain meaning of a Democratic victory is that those who fought against the Union shall rule it.

SPEAKING AT LAFAYETTE.

HON. J. N. DOLPH MAKES A ROUSING SPEECH—THE DEMOCRATS UNABLE TO REPLY.

LAFAYETTE, Nov 2 1876.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

According to previous announcement Hon. J. N. Dolph addressed the citizens of this last night. There was a large attendance, he spoke for two hours and a half to as [illegible] ested an audience as ever met at this place. SATURDAY MORNING, NOV. 4, 1876.

THE SHAM REFORMER AND THE WORKING MEN.

The Tildenites' gush over the sorrows and hardships of the working men, and Tilden himself, addressing them from balconies, in response to serenades gotten up to give him an opportunity, tries to tickle them by saying "We are all laborers." That sounds very well, but what is the depth of Mr. Tilden's affection for the laboring men? His shuffling out of his just proportion of the taxes which are required to be paid by working men as well as rich men, seems to furnish a pretty complete answer to the question. So does the fact of his amassing an immense fortune through the aid of railway companies at the expense of the working people, the products of whose labor go to make up the fortunes of these corporations. But we have furnished us in the history of his connection with the Michigan Iron Company a case more directly in point. In 1875 that company, in which Mr. Tilden owned 110 shares, went into bankruptcy. The company at that time owed $500,000 to its laborers, the wages of their labor in mining the ore. Previous to the adjudication of bankruptcy, several of the stockholders, in view of the injustice and hardship of having these laborers lose their hard-earned pay, voluntarily proposed that all the stockholders should join, each contributing according to the amount of his stock, and make up out of their individual fortunes the amount [illegible] to pay up the wages of the la[illegible]. The arrangement failed, however, [illegible] one of the stockholders op[illegible] it and refused to contribute any[illegible]. That stockholder was Samuel J. Tilden, then a millionaire, and whose pro [illegible] contribution would have been the pitiful sum of $1,300. And this is the man who is now wooing the workingmen with his "we are all laborers." Yes, we are all laborers, and the labor in which [illegible] Mr. Tilden was engaged, before [illegible] labor of angling for working[illegible] began, was that of devising [illegible] schemes to enrich himself [illegible] of workingmen. Will the [illegible] forget this on election day?

REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC.

Both Republicans and Democrats call [illegible] reform. But the reforms demanded [illegible] the two parties, if we are to judge by [illegible] they have, respectively, nomi[illegible] President, differ from each other [illegible] important respects. The reform [illegible] by the Republicans is well ex[illegible] Governor Hayes in his letter [illegible] The abolition of the sys[illegible] the offices a personal [illegible] of the President and Senators, [illegible] in rewarding politicians for [illegible] vices; the re-establishment of [illegible] which controlled the admin[illegible] of Washington and all his suc[illegible] to the days of Jackson, that fitness, and not loyalty to party, [illegible] the qualification for office; hon[illegible] economy in the administration [illegible] ment; firmness and moderation [illegible] with the Southern disorders; [illegible] in the office of President. These [illegible] main points of the reform [illegible] by the Republicans.

[illegible] of the Tildenites is for [illegible] of all Republicans, good [illegible] alike, and the replacing [illegible] with hungry Democrats [illegible] done party work; the [illegible] of the financial policy which [illegible] the country safely through the [illegible] war and which has built up its [illegible] it stands abreast of the fore[illegible] of the earth; the indefinite [illegible] of a return to a gold and [illegible] ency; the practical re-enslave[illegible] the colored people of the South; [illegible] of the Kuklux white-liners [illegible] wholesale slaughter of the colored [illegible] white Republicans, and in [illegible] ion of free speech in the [illegible] There are the most prominent [illegible] the reform demanded by the [illegible] party, and which is to be ac[illegible] through the election of Tilden [illegible] Presidency.

JUST SO.

[illegible] devotes a large share of its [illegible] morning to the question whether a [illegible] There is not a paper in the [illegible] took more positive grounds in [illegible] tire, and complete change from [illegible] administration than the OREGONI[illegible] months ago.—Standard.

[illegible] so. The OREGONIAN not only "a [illegible] the ago," but many months ago, [illegible] "positive grounds in favor of an [illegible] and complete change from the present administration," and the OREGONIAN [illegible] no reason yet to retrace its steps in [illegible]. That is one of the most co[illegible] arguments the OREGONIAN urges in favor of the election of Hayes. In his election there is ground to hope for a radical change in respect of those matters of which the OREGONIAN and the Conservative Republicans all over the country have complained; while in the election of Tilden they can see nothing but a continuation of the vicious and dangerous spoils system, only substituting Democratic mercenaries for Republican mercenaries; a continuation of machine politics, but in an aggravated form; a more corrupt and debauched public service even than that which has been nursed and nurtured by the present administration. And to this aggravation of the disease which has been eating out the vitals of the government, we should have under Tilden, the complications of a Ku Klux rule in the South; a general derangement of the finances of the country, and relapse of now reviving trade into a stagnation from which no recovery could be expected for many years.

THE REVIVAL OF BUSINESS.

Commenting on the fact that trade shows more activity this fall than it has for several years past, the Philadelphia Times expresses the opinion that the prospect is good for a continuance of this activity, and assigns as the chief reason for such an opinion the enlargement of the foreign market for American products. Says the Times:

"When it is remembered that never before have American produce and manufactures been thrown upon so many markets as during the past year, and that the Exhibition is introducing them to a still larger circle of consumers, it will be seen that we have much to hope for in this direction. Never until last year was fresh beef put into the London market by New York butchers, and now the amount sent over is weekly increasing until it forms a large proportion of the steamers' freight. The trade of the west coast of South America has been monopolized by England, but this summer a steamer from Boston carried out to Valparaiso a quarter of a million dollars' worth of cottons, such as could not be manufactured in England and yet they can be sold at prices fully as low. And just as we are preparing to establish a line of steamships to Brazil, the Fall River mills have begun running on goods for that great South American nation. Our cutlery finds it way into every market where Sheffield is known, and British steel surpasses ours neither in temper nor polish. We have almost ceased to import paper, so good and so cheap is our own, and we are seriously thinking of competing with De la Rue for the London trade. We import British hosiery and underwear still, and yet a Vermont manufacturer, returned from England a few months since, has declined orders from dealers there sufficient to keep his mills running for a year at a handsome profit. And now our gold is coming back to us by every steamer, what more could we ask?

While the Tildenites go up and down the country crying out against the financial policy of the government as the source of the dull times, trade is reviving all over the country, and a more cheerful tone prevails in all branches of industry and enterprise. The dull times began with the collapse of 1873, and that collapse was the result of over production and general inflation of business, consequent upon the war. Then necessity forced economy in living, the curtailment of private expenses, and a return to frugal habits. Excessive production in the manufactories ceased, and opportunity was allowed for consumption to overtake production. The effect of this is just now being felt and seen in the general revival of business. This goes on under the same financial policy which is declared to be the cause of the collapse. It may be in accordance with Democratic theories of political economy for the same cause to break down the industries and trade of a country and build them up again. That party seems to have rather confused ideas on that subject, and it is not so strange for them to proceed upon this self-contradictory theory as it would be for people who have clearer ideas.

Look out for bogus tickets. The scheme of electing Democrats by making tickets similar to the regular Republican tickets, but with one or more Democratic candidates in place of Republicans, will be carried out, if possible. Do not let your carelessness enable the Tildenites to impose a bogus ticket on you. See that your ticket has the names of J. C. Cartwright, J. W. Watts and W. H. Odell for Presidential Electors, and Richard Williams for Congress.

As an example of what can be accomplished with "a bar'l of money," the Madison (Wis.) Patriot may be cited. It is now a zealous supporter of Tilden. Its opinion of him before the bung-hole in the barrel was opened, that is, two days prior to his nomination, was expressed in this rather forcible way: "Besides being a hard-soft-shinplaster-anything-to-make-dollars man, Gov. Tilden is a big railway shark with a double row of teeth all round."

The Standard declares "the Democracy rely on the justice of their cause, and if they can not win on that they propose to be defeated." People must be oddly constituted who can work as the Democrats are working in this campaign without anything more substantial to rely on than the justice of the Democratic cause. Still we are glad to be told that the Democracy have made up their minds to a defeat.

A Tildenite who calls himself a Union soldier, demands, through the Standard, that the OREGONIAN explain "why a Democrat can not be as good a Union man as a Republican." We give it up. It always was a difficult thing to account for. The Democrats themselves never could give any very intelligent reason for it. It seems to be one of those facts which all must admit, but which few can explain.

The Democratic caucus at Washington whipped Lane into the rag-money traces. And now Lane and the Democratic organs are engaged in the endeavor to whip the people of the hard-money State of Oregon into the same traces. Will they be whipped in, or will they send Richard Williams to Congress?

POLITICS AT ALBANY.

GOVERNOR GROVER SPEAKS HIS PIECE—"GENTLEMEN, THOSE ARE MY SENTIMENTS."

ALBANY, Nov. 3, 1876.

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

According to appointment Grover made his speech here last evening. For more than a week his little boy, Brig. Gen. Mart Van Buren Brown, editor of the Cocktail Advertiser and proprietor of the patent lying mill of this place, has been laboring with unflagging zeal in the cause of his master. Having seen the handwriting upon the wall he became painfully aware of the fact that his king has lost his grip in the great county of Linn, and that unless the "party lash" be vigorously applied and the utmost endeavors made to whip the Democrats out the Governor would have to make his address to empty benches. Well, after one week of hard work he succeeded to drum out enough of boys, stragglers and bedrocks to fill the court house about one-fourth full. The other one-fourth was filled by Republicans who knowing how things were going went out to enjoy (and did hugely) the discomfiture of their enemies. The ladies being urgently invited to attend did so enthuse to the number of twenty.

The Governor made a speech of three-quarters of an hour, giving us a very poor rehearsal of Luttrell's speech, made here about a year ago, about the revenue officers and the division of blankets in the Indian department, and all such Cheap John electioneering bosh. It fell flat and stale, creating no enthusiasm except among a few boys and the cheering choir gotten up for the occasion. This choir is composed of the county officials, present and expectant, editor of the "Sorbin Organ," the speaker of the late legislature and a half dozen ex-members of the "Knights of the Golden Circle." He wound up with a statement which he ought to know is false: that the Republicans wanted to make voters of the Chinamen, and that they would. He should know, if he don't, that the Chinese are not nor can become citizens, and therefore cannot become voters. There must have been something the matter with the Governor. He stammered through his speech and seemed utterly at a loss what to say, and failed to get up any life or enthusiasm. In justice to him, I will have to say that it was the poorest speech I ever heard him make. The audience seemed to feel that the speaker was a kind of neutral, negative sort of a sexual mistake—a something, but what, no one knows. The following, we think, is a fit illustration of the man: During the first of the war it was very desirable to know just how every man stood in regard to the great issue. Grover was exceedingly reticent as to his position on the subject. It was determined to test him; so a couple of gentlemen called on him and propounded the following questions: "Are you, or are you not, in favor of putting down the rebellion?" His Excellency drew himself up, and, in his pompous style, said, "Gentlemen, those are my sentiments." We do not give this statement from our own knowledge, but whether true or not we think all will agree as to the applicability.

The Hayes and Wheeler club is prospering beyond the fondest expectation of its friends. There will be a rousing meeting held by the club this evening. Never, since the old bitter days when it tried men's souls to stand up for the old flag, have the Republicans been so thoroughly united, and so universally at work, and so confident of the victory that will crown our efforts on next Tuesday. All our meetings are largely attended and intensely enthusiastic, while it is just the opposite with the Democrats; they have not held a regular meeting for more than a month, and on the two last meetings entirely failed to get a crowd out, and had to adjourn without doing anything. Such was the case when Judge Lawrence came up by special invitation to address the club.

LEATHERS' ARTIFICIAL STONE.

A WONDERFUL INVENTION—COMMITTEE OF PROMINENT CITIZENS INVESTIGATE THE PROCESS BY WHICH ARTIFICIAL STONE IS MANUFACTURED AND REPORT FAVORABLY—AFFIDAVITS

Frequent allusion has been made in the OREGONIAN to Leathers patent process by which artificial stone is manufactured Although mention has been made a number of times of this really wonderful but simple process by which sand cement and a solution can be so combined as to form stone which for hardness and durability will not compare unfavorably with the best taken from the quarries the general attention of our leading citizens has not been directed to the matter So that the subject might be properly understood and the merits of the stone thus made by artificial means be tested in the most thorough and critical manner Col Thorpe and I I Leathers Esq the inventor of the process extended an invitation yesterday morning to a number of our prominent merchants and business men to call at the factory to witness the process by means of which artificial stone is manufactured and likewise make a careful examination of the specimens exhibited and subject the same to any severe test which would demonstrate the strength hardness solidity and durability of the stone

In compliance with the invitation a number of prominent gentlemen (whose names appear in connection with the report appended) visited in company with Col Thorpe and Mr Leathers the new sidewalk just laid in front of Strowbridge's brick building on First street and also the residence of Mr Steel and carefully examined the new pavement recently laid of the artificial stone Afterward these gentlemen visited the factory of the Artificial Stone Company and witnessed the process by which the stone is made After making a thorough and satisfactory examination of the specimens furnished the gentlemen retired to the private office of the company for consultation and action

The meeting was called to order by His Honor Mayor Chapman who briefly stated the object for which the gentlemen present were called together

Col Thorpe who was present stated to the meeting that all present had examined personally the process and the stone, and he presumed could speak knowingly of its merits All he desired of the committee was a candid report If in their judgment, the whole thing was a humbug and a delusion he wanted them to say so But if on the contrary they thought it meritorious and worthy of the careful consideration of the business men of this city and Oregon he would like very much to have them say so

Mr Leathers and Col Thorpe then retired from the room and left the committee to submit such report as they deemed proper with reference to the matter under consideration

On motion of Mr J W Whalley a sub committee of five persons was appointed to prepare a report, setting forth in detail the conclusions of the committee after making the personal investigation of the process and witnessing the tests to which the specimens were subjected

The chairman appointed as such committee Messrs J W Whalley O P Mason, R Porter J B Congle and Joseph Buchtel

On motion the meeting adjourned until 7 o'clock, to enable the sub committee to prepare their report

Last evening at the hour designated the members of the sub committee, and also the whole committee assembled at the company's office

After being called to order J W Whalley Esq, chairman of the sub committee submitted the following

REPORT,

Which was unanimously adopted and then signed by the whole committee

We, the undersigned committee appointed to examine the merits of the Leathers artificial stone, patented on the 6th day of June, 1876, respectfully report to the citizens of Multnomah county that on the 3d day of November, 1876, we proceeded to view and carefully examine the sidewalk of artificial stone lately put down in front of Strowbridge's building corner of Alder and First streets, Portland Oregon From thence we went to the residence of James Steel, Esq, where lawn walks of the same material have been constructed The sidewalks and lawn walks which we examined are beautiful in appearance, are very hard and solid entirely free from chipping and cracks, and afford every indication of durability We cordially commend the Leathers artificial stone to our citizens, and trust the day is not far distant when, by its general adoption, our city will be beautified and improved The committee deem the stone to be peculiarly adapted for cistern work and sewer lining—in fact, the uses to which it is adapted are so various as to render enumeration impossible. The ease with which it can be manufactured and its comparative cheapness, the cost being about the same as ordinary brick must eventually cause it to supersede cut stone

After visiting the workshop of the Artificial Stone Manufacturing Company and examining specimens of their work, a portion of the committee were appointed to subject a manufactured stone of the size and shape of a common brick to a heat test This stone was heated in a forge to a red heat then taken from the fire and whilst red hot immersed endwise in cold water, after leaving it thus for a few minutes the whole stone was submerged and allowed to cool Upon taking the stone from the water it was found uninjured notwithstanding the severity of the test The committee were very hospitably treated by Mr Leathers, the inventor who readily and satisfactorily answered all questions which were addressed to him by us In conclusion we say that after as critical and fair examination as it was possible for us to give, we are one and all impressed with the belief that the invention is one of great merit and that it is worthy of the support and encouragement of our citizens

CARD FROM DR. GLISAN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Under the head of Smallpox in Thursday morning's local column of your paper you stated that About fifteen days ago Jacob Cline was taken ill A physician was sent for after a few days had elapsed who on examining the symptoms pronounced the disorder a disease of the skin

This imperfect statement may lead some persons to believe that I am the physician alluded to I made the first visit to Mr Cline instead of Dr Chapman who subsequently saw him and it was all god that when being told that I had pronounced the disease smallpox he said that I was mistaken as it was only a disease of the skin

Cline endeavored to convince me that his rash was caused by some blood medicine that he had been taking but as his symptoms were plain I told him that he had the smallpox and that although I would prescribe for him that he must secure other medical aid as I was too busy attending upon women and children to give him the necessary attention On inquiry he said that both himself and children had been vaccinated which I am told was an error so far as the children were concerned

I immediately reported all the facts to the chief of police and requested him to see Cline and to have him secure proper medical attention and added that if no other physician could be obtained that I would attend upon him

I heard no more of the case for ten days when Cline asked me to see his children On remonstrating with him for running about the streets he stated that Dr Chapman and another physician had said that he had only a skin disease

I saw his children and found them sick with the smallpox and told him that if he could obtain other medical aid I would not attend upon them However I prescribed for them and reported the matter to the Mayor Dr Chapman who reiterated his opinion that Cline had only a skin disease until I informed him that the children were ill with the smallpox when he said that he told Cline that he had the smallpox

The chief of police called at my office shortly thereafter and stated that the reason that he had taken but little precautionary measures in the premises was because of the statement of Dr Chapman that Cline had only a skin disease I told the chief that I had made arrangements for another physician to attend upon Cline's children but that if he failed to comply with his promise that I would do so though I was very busy in family practice and could not in justice to other patients attend on those with the smallpox unless the disorder should become very prevalent

The chief called again and said it was all right as the physician alluded to would give the necessary attention

It was at my suggestion that the family living next door to Cline moved away as soon as they could after I first saw the latter

Respectfully R GLISAN M D

PORTLAND PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

CITY EDITOR OREGONIAN

When it was known that there were cases of smallpox in our midst Hon A H Morgan president of the board of directors—the other members of the board being absent from the city—immediately ordered that pupils should not be permitted to attend the public schools who reside where there is a case of smallpox or scarlet fever And further that principals if in their judgment the health and prosperity of their schools demand it, should exclude all pupils who live adjacent to dwellings where there is a case of smallpox The principals of the several schools are enforcing this judicious sanitary regulation

Patrons can, therefore I think with security send their children to school knowing that proper steps have been promptly taken to prevent the introduction and spreading of contagious diseases in our schools

As a matter of fact I will state that no pupil, as has been reported, has been sent home from any of the public schools in consequence of his having the smallpox while in his class"

On the 18th of last month Chas Cline left school and his brother George Cline on the 24th of the same month—both were members of the Harrison street school Prof I W Pratt the principal of the school, has been creditably informed that it was two or three days after Geo Cline left school before he was taken ill Respectfully S W KING,

SATURDAY MORNING, NOV. 4, 1876.

FORTUNE AND LOVE.

Let me live without Fortune, if Providence will it,
For Joy can be found where small treasure is [illegible];
[illegible] who bear a full cup are most fearful to spill it,
And oftentimes walk with the narrowest tread.
I care not though Fate may deny me profusion,
If earth will but show me some rays from above;
Tell me not that God's light is a dreamy illusion—
I could live without Fortune, but not without Love!

Oh! 'tis [illegible] to know there are beings above us
Who tune the most exquisite strings in our heart,
To feel that they would not be happy without us,
And that we in our loneliness sigh when we part.
Oh! there's something divine in the thought that we cherish
A star beam within us, that shines from above—
We know that if all the world gives us should perish,
The [illegible] of Fortune still dwells in our love!

Oh! 'tis [illegible] to feel that we live for some others,
[illegible] is not all we depend on below,
[illegible] affection yet links us to sisters and brothers,
[illegible] faith will be constant, come weal or come woe.
[illegible] the vulture of trouble may harass our bosom,
[illegible] fear while our spirit is fed by the dove;
Let the desert of Life give Eternity's blossom,
[illegible] we'll live without Fortune, while favored by Love!

—Eliza Cook.

JOSHUA'S COURTSHIP.

[illegible] you ever see a bashful man? If you [illegible] you have seen the most awkward [illegible] among human bipeds. Now [illegible] be something attractive and interesting in the shrinking timidity of a blushing [illegible] I have my doubts in regard to it; [illegible] man—who ever pities him? [illegible] by one sex and laughed at [illegible] always doing what he never intended to do, and saying what he never intended to say, he is one of the most pitiable [illegible].

[illegible] in these days of brass and assurance [illegible] everybody thinks himself as [illegible] his neighbor, and a good deal better, [illegible] rare. But still they are to be [illegible] though they are quick [illegible] and probably in a few years [illegible] left.

[illegible] Wheat, was one of this [illegible] of people. I say was, for [illegible] improved of late years. [illegible] Joshua enter a [illegible] and a [illegible] either blundered [illegible] or shot bashfully [illegible] hiding himself [illegible] from observation behind a [illegible]. If there was a chair or a [illegible] in the room, which was very [illegible], he generally managed to [illegible] it, which was not at all calculated [illegible] his self-possession or add to [illegible] entrance. If a pretty girl [illegible] he stammered and turned all [illegible] as frightened and [illegible] had been convicted of sheep-[illegible].

[illegible] Plainly never was a [illegible] of the better [illegible] capable of appreciating [illegible] of matrimony; yet [illegible] age of twenty-eight without [illegible] towards realizing [illegible] before.

[illegible] but, though none of [illegible] good looks or sense, they [illegible] did not, plenty of assurance [illegible] all they did know, and [illegible] happily settled in life, [illegible] late

[illegible] to support [illegible] of this world's goods, [illegible] It certainly was [illegible] of all sorts [illegible] and gray [illegible] all. No; Joshua [illegible] he had [illegible] say one of the [illegible] I love you—will [illegible]

[illegible] the bare possibility of losing [illegible] like a new man; and [illegible] in some corner, as was his [illegible] to speak to her or any one [illegible] by her side the whole evening [illegible] her for a moment, and [illegible] she requested him to bring [illegible] Mr. Hale, who had [illegible] attentions to Mary with a [illegible] this request, and being well [illegible] blundering propensities, [illegible] placed a stool directly in his [illegible] Joshua came back, and [illegible] around the stool, as any [illegible] have done, he stumbled over [illegible] full length upon the floor, [illegible] of his hands, which con- [illegible] of coffee, and a plate heaped [illegible] pumpkin-pie, and various [illegible] directly in Mary's lap.

[illegible] feat produced quite a sen- [illegible] up a loud scream, and the [illegible] rushed to see what was [illegible] and it was some time before order

[illegible] tumult had in a measure subsided Mary looked around for the unlucky [illegible] he was nowhere to be found. [illegible] at the ridiculous figure he had cut, [illegible] merriment of those who had witnessed [illegible] rushed from the house, and never [illegible] his [illegible] until he had reached his [illegible] and bolted the door, firmly resolving, [illegible] that he would never speak to, or [illegible] at a girl again, so long as he lived. Mary was more annoyed at Joshua's [illegible] than at the loss of her [illegible] which was nearly ruined; and she con- [illegible] dislike than ever to the [illegible] who, she was quite sure, was [illegible] of it all. She resolutely de- [illegible] escort at the close of the [illegible] going home with one of her [illegible] the alternative of [illegible] a lady or going home by [illegible] Joshua did not [illegible] ing, Mary put on her bonnet and shawl and went over to his house for the ostensible purpose of having a gossip with old Mrs. Wheat, who lived with her son, but in reality to find out what had become of her sensitive lover.

Much to her disappointment, Joshua was not at home, though she saw a coat-tail quickly disappear through an opposite door as she entered the room, which she shrewdly conjectured belonged to him.

After sitting awhile and chatting with the old lady, with whom she was quite a favorite, Mary rose to go, saying as she did so, that she guessed she would go across the lots, as it was considerably nearer.

She accordingly passed out of the back way. As she was going through the garden she caught a glimpse of Joshua in an adjoining orchard, walking disconsolately among the trees laden with their delicate fruit, and looking as though he hadn't a friend in the world.

He started and colored as his eyes fell upon Mary.

"Why, Mr. Wheat," she exclaimed, in a tone of surprise, "who would have thought of finding you here? Why I haven't seen you for an age. Have you been sick?"

"Yes—no—that is, I haven't been very well, lately," stammered Joshua, looking as if he had half a mind to run away.

"You don't say! You are looking pale," said Mary, with the appearance of great sympathy, glancing mischievously at his face, which was growing redder every moment, and which certainly showed no signs of ill health.

"What a beautiful situation!" she resumed, after a pause, looking admirably around on the well cultivated farm. "There's only one thing wanted to make you comfortable," she added slightly, "and that is a wife. What in the world is the reason you don't get married, Joshua?"

The poor fellow colored clear up to the tips of his hair.

"I—I—really don't know," he gasped; "there—there—won't any body have me."

"Fiddlesticks!" was the laughing rejoinder, "I know better than that. There are plenty that would, if you would only take the trouble to ask them. I know of one, at least," she added in a lower tone.

"No, but really, do you?" inquired Joshua, earnestly. "Who can it be?"

This was rather too much, and growing indignant at either his stupidity or want of courage to take advantage of the opportunity she gave him, she remained silent.

"What a singular looking apple that is that you hold in your hand!" she remarked, breaking the embarrassing silence that ensued.

"Yes," returned Joshua. "It's a new kind that I grafted last year, and the only one that came to perfection. Won't you have it, Miss Mary?" he added, looking at her timidly.

"Will I have you, Joshua? Of course I will," said Mary, with the most innocent air imaginable.

Joshua was thunderstruck, scarcely daring to believe his ears.

"Are you in earnest, Mary?" he inquired, looking anxiously into her face.

"To be sure I am," she returned, laughing and coloring; "and we will be married next Christmas."

Unable to contain himself, Joshua immediately threw his arm around Mary and ratified the bargain with a kiss, at which performance Mary manifested not the slightest objection or displeasure.

On the following Christmas there was a merry wedding at Squire Dearborn's, at which our friends, Joshua and Mary, were the chief actors.

And now the staid, dignified looking man, who walks into the church with such an important air, with his wife on one side and their little boy on the other, would hardly be recognized as that blundering, awkward fellow, Joshua Wheat.

OBJECTS.

This Savings Bank has been formed at the desire and under the auspices of thirty-one gentlemen, citizens of Oregon and Washington Territory who have become Stockholders therein along with certain other gentlemen in Scotland to supply a want hitherto much felt, namely an Institution whose similar to those in California, the working, [illegible]ing and other classes of Oregon and Washington Territory may from time to time deposit their [illegible] savings along with the Bank's own capital for investment in Oregon and Washington Territory (to which the Bank's operations are limited) secured from Mortgages over City Properties, Farming and other Lands for the purpose thereby of assisting to develop the industries of the North Pacific coast.

The Bank's Directors and Officers in Oregon having had considerable experience in finance and real estate securities, their policy will be to guard depositors' moneys and the Stockholders' capital by loaning only on first class securities, high interest being a secondary consideration. The Bank does not therefore seek to employ its funds in a commercial banking business, confining its operations strictly to those securities with which its Directors are familiarly acquainted, such as real estate loans, advances on bonds, assignments and similar securities which are not fluctuating in value; hence no loans will be made on Promissory Notes alone, or Bills of Exchange and such like.

Security to Depositors.

The security for repayment of Depositors' moneys is two-fold;

1st. Not only the mortgages, assignments, bonds and other pledges on which the Bank's deposits are carefully loaned and the real estate secured thereby, which must be located in Oregon and Washington Territory; but also,

2d. The Bank's own $300 000 capital specially pledged for the safety of depositors, in order that all losses (if any) shall be made therefrom, thus forming a double security for depositors' moneys.

No charge for entrance fee or pass books.

Deposits received from $2 50 and upwards.

Rates of interest on application.

Hours, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Certificate of Incorporation, Constitution, Articles of Association, Regulations and By-laws for depositors, may be seen at the Bank's office.
